The humble Advice of the Assembly of Divines now, by Authority of Parliament, sitting at Westminster.

Concerning a Confession of Faith.

CHAP. I.

Of the Holy Scripture.

Although the Light of Nature, and the works of Creation and Providence do so far manifest the Goodness, Wisdom, and Power of God, as to leave men unexcusable; yet are they not sufficient to give that knowledge of God and of his Will, which is necessary unto salvation. Therefore it pleased the Lord at sundry times, and in divers manners, to reveal himself, and to declare that his Will unto his Church; and afterwards for the better preserving and propagating of the Truth, and for the more sure establishment and comfort of the Church against the corruption of the flesh, and the malice of Satan and of the world, to commit the same wholly unto writing: which maketh the Holy Scripture to be most necessary, those former ways of God's revealing his Will unto his people, being now sealed.

All which are given by inspiration of God, to be the Rule of faith and life.

1. The Books commonly called Apocrypha, not being of Divine inspiration, are no part of the Canon of the Scripture; and therefore are of no authority in the Church of God, nor to be by any otherwise approved, or made use of, than other humane Writings.

IV. The authority of the Holy Scripture, for which it ought to be believed and obeyed, dependeth not upon the Testimony of any man, or Church; but wholly upon God (who is Truth itself) the Author thereof; and therefore it is to be received, because it is the Word of God.

V. We may be moved and induced by the Testimony of the Church, to an high and reverent esteem of the holy Scripture. And the heavenliness of the Matter, the efficacy of the Doctrines, the majesty of the Stile, the content of all the Parts, the Scope of the whole (which is, to give all glory to God,) the full discovery in makes of the only way of mans salvation, the many incomparable Excellencies, and the entire perfection thereof, are Arguments whereby it doth abundantly evidence it to be the Word of God; yet notwithstanding, our full persuasion and assurance of the infallible truth, and Divine authority thereof, is from the inward work of the Holy Spirit, bearing witness by, and with the Word, in our hearts.

VI. The whole Counsell of God concerning all things necessary for his own Glory, mans salvation, Faith and Life, is either expressly laid down in Scriptures, or by good and necessary consequence may be deduced from Scripture; unto which nothing at any time is to be added.
added, whether by new revelations of the Spirit, or traditions of men. Nevertheless, we acknowledge the inward illumination of the Spirit of God to be necessary for the saving understanding of such things as are revealed in the Word: and that there are some circumstances concerning the Worship of God, and Government of the Church common to humane Actions and Societies, which are to be ordered by the Light of Nature and Christian Prudence, according to the general Rules of the Word, which are always to be observed.

VIII. All things in Scripture are not alike plain in themselves, nor alike clear unto all; yet those things which are necessary to be known, believed, and observed for salvation, are so clearly propounded and opened in some place of Scripture or other, that not only the learned, but the unlearned, in a due use of the ordinary means, may attain unto a sufficient understanding of them.

VIII. The Old Testament in Hebrew (which was the Native Language of the People of God, of old, and the New Testament in Greek, which at the time of the writing of it was most generally known to the Nations being immediately inspired by God, and by his singular care and Providence kept pure in all Ages) are therefore Authentic and True in all Controversies of Religion, the Church is finally to Appeal unto them. But because the Original Tongues are not known to all the people of God, who have right unto and interest in the Scriptures, and are commanded in the fear of God to read the same, therefore they are to be translated into the Vulgar Language of every Nation unto which they come, that the Word of God dwelling plenteously in all, they may worship him in an acceptable manner; and through patience and comfort of the Scriptures may have hope.

IX. The infallible Rule of Interpretation of Scripture is the Scripture itself: and therefore, when there is a Question about the true and full sense of any Scripture (which is not manifold, but one) it must be searched and known by other places that speak more clearly.

X. The Supremacy Judged by which all Controversies of Religion are to be determined, and all Decrees of Councils, Opinions of Ancient Writers, Doctrines of men, and private spirits, are to be examined, and in whose sense we are to rest, cannot be other but the Holy Spirit speaking in the Scripture.

CHAP. II.
Of God, and of the holy Trinity.

There is but one only living, and true God; who is infinite in Being and Perfection, a most pure, Spirit, indivisible, without body, parts, or passions; immutable, inexhaustible, eternal, incomprehensible, almighty, most holy, most free, most absolute; working all things according to the Counsel of his own immutable and most righteous will, for his own glory; most loving, gracious, merciful, long-suffering, abundant in goodness and truth; forgiving iniquity, transgression, and sin, the rewarder of them that diligently seek him; and withal, most just and terrible in his judgments, hating all sin, and who will by no means clear the guilty.

II. God hath all life, glory, goodness, blessedness.
11. Although God knows whatsoever may, or can come to pass upon all supposed conditions; yet hath he not decreed any thing because he foresaw it as future, or as that which would come to pass upon such conditions.

III. By the decree of God, for the manifestation of his glory, some men and angels are predestinated unto everlasting life, and others fore-ordained to everlasting death.

IV. These angels and men thus predestinated and fore-ordained, are particularly and unchangeably designated, and their number is so certain and definite, that in cannot be either increased or diminished.

V. Those of man kind that are predestinated unto life, God, b. b fore the foundation of the world was laid, according to his eternal and immutable purpose, and the foreordainéd counsell and good pleasure of his Will, hath chosen in Christ unto everlasting glory, out of his elect, i. Eph. 1, 4, 9, free grace and love, without any fore sight of Faith, or Good works, or perseverance in either of them, or any other thing in the creature, as conditions, or cause moving him thereunto, and all to the praise of his glorious grace.

VI. As God hath appointed the Elect unto glory, so hath he, by the eternal and most free purpose of his Will, fore-ordained all the means thereunto. Wherefore they who are elected, being fallen in Adam, are redeemed by Christ, are effectually called unto faith in Christ, Christ, by his Spirit working in due season, are justified, adopted, sanctified, and kept by his power through faith unto salvation. Neither are any other redeemed by Christ, effectually called, justified, adopted, sanctified, and saved, but the Elect only.

VII. The rest of mankind God was pleased, according to the unsearchable counsel of his own Will, whereby he extendeth, or withholdeth mercy, as he pleaseth, for the glory of his Sovereign Power over his creatures, to punish, and to ordain them to dishonour and wrath for their sin, to the praise of his glorious justice.

VIII. The doctrine of this high Mystery of Predestination is to be handled with special prudence and care, that men attending the Will of God revealed in his Word, and yielding obedience thereto, may, from the certainty of their effectual Vocation, be assured of their eternal Election. So shall this Doctrine afford matter of praise, reverence, and admiration of God, and of humility, diligence, and abundant consolation to all that sincerely obey the Gospell.

CHAP. IV.

Of Creation.

It pleased God the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost, for the manifestation of the glory of his eternal power and wisdom, and goodness, in the beginning, to create, or make of nothing the World, and all things therein, whether visible or invisible, in the space of six days, and all very good.

v 11. After God had made all other Creatures, he created Man, male and female, with reasonable and immortal souls, invested with knowledge, righteousness, and true holiness, after his own Image, having the Law of God written in their hearts, and power to fulfill it; and yet under a possibility of transgressing, being left to the Liberty of their own will, which was subject unto change. Beside this Law written in their hearts, they received a command, not to eat of the tree of the Knowledge of good and evil, which while they kept, they were happy in their Communion with God, and had Dominion over the creatures.
GOD the great Creator of all things, doth uphold all things, and disposes, and govern all creatures, actions, and things, from the greatest even to the least, by his most wise and holy Providence, according to his infallible fore-knowledge, and the free and immutable counsel of his own Will, to the praise of the glory of His Wisdom, Power, Justice, Goodness, and Mercy.

II. Although in relation to the fore-knowledge and decrees of God, the first Cause, all things come to pass immutably and infallibly: yet by the same Providence he ordeth them to fall out, according to the nature of second causes, either necessarily, freely or contingently.

III. God in his ordinary Providence maketh use of means, yet is free to work without them, above them, and against them at his pleasure.

IV. The Almighty power, unsearchable wisdom, and infinite goodness of God in the manifestation of himself, and the infinite grace, whereby he might have been inflamed in their understandings, and wrought upon in their hearts: but sometimes also with the gift of spiritual grace, which they had, and exposteth them to such objects as their corruption makes occasions of sin.

V. The most wise, righteous, and gracious GOD doth ordain men to a certain degree their own children to manifold temptations, and the corruption of their own hearts, to chastise them for their former sins: or to discover unto them the hidden strength of corruption, and deceitfulness of their hearts, that they may be humbled: and to raise them to a more close and constant dependance for their support unto himself, and to make them more watchful against all future occasions of sin, and for finding other just and holy ends.

VI. As for those wicked and ungodly men, whom GOD as a righteous Judge, for former sins doth blind and harden, from them he not only withholdeth his grace, whereby they might have been inflamed in their understandings, and wrought upon in their hearts; but sometimes also with the spirit of spiritual grace, which they had, and exposteth them to such objects as their corruption makes occasions of sin, and with them, gives them over to their own lusts, the temptations of the world, and the power of Satan, whereby it comes to pass that they harden themselves, even under those means, which GOD useth for the softening of others.

B. As III, VII.
VII. As the providence of God doth, in general, reach to all Creatures; so after a most special manner, it taketh care of his Church, and disposeth all things to the good thereof.

CHAP. VI.
Of the Fall of Man, of Sin, and of the Punishment thereof.

Our first Parents being seduced by the subtlety and temptation of Satan, sinned in eating the forbidden fruit. This their sin, God was pleased, according to his wife and holy counsel, to permit, having purposed to order it to his own glory.

II. By this sin they fell from their original righteousness and communion with God, and so became dead in sin, and wholly defiled in all the faculties and parts of soul and body.

11. They being the root of all mankind, the guilt of this sin was imputed to all, and the same death in sin and corruption of nature, conveyed to all their posterity descending from them by ordinary generation.

111. From this original corruption, whereby we are utterly indispensible, disenabled, and made opposite to all good, and wholly inclined to all evil, do proceed all actual transgressions.

1V. This corruption of nature during this life doth remain in those that are regenerated; and although it be through Christ pardoned and mortified, yet both it self and all the motions thereof, are truly and properly sin.

V. Every sin, both Original and Actual, being a transgression of the righteous Law of God, and contrary thereunto, doth, in its own nature, bring guilt upon the sinner, whereby he is bound over to the wrath of God, and curse of the Law, and so made subject to death, with all miseries spiritual, temporal, and eternal.

CHAP. VII.
Of God's Covenant with Man.

The distance between God and the Creature is so great, that although reasonable Creatures do owe obedience unto him as their Creator, yet they could never have any fruition of him as their Blessedness and Reward, but by some voluntary concession on God's part, which he hath been pleased to express by way of Covenant.

11. The first Covenant made with Man, was a Covenant of Works, wherein Life was promised to Adam, and in him to his posterity, upon condition of perfect and personal obedience.

111. Man by his Fall having made himself incapable of Life by that Covenant, the Lord was pleased
IV. This Covenant of Grace is frequently set forth in the Scripture by the name of a Testament, in reference to the death of Jesus Christ the Mediator, and to the everlasting Inheritance, with all things belonging to it, thereto bequeathed.

V. This Covenant was differently administered in the time of the Law, and in the time of the Gospel: Under the Law, it was administered by Promises, Prophecies, Sacrifices, Circumcision, the Paschal Lamb, and other Types and Ordinances delivered to the people of the Jews, all fore-signifying Christ to come, which were for that time, sufficient and efficacious through the operation of the Spirit, to instruct and build up the Elect in Faith in the Promised Messiah, by whom they had full remission of sins and eternal Salvation: and is called, the Old Testament.

VI. Under the Gospel, when Christ the substance, was exhibited, the Ordinances in which this Covenant is dispensed, are the Preaching of the Word, and the Administration of the Sacraments of Baptism, and the Lords Supper. Which, though fewer in number, and administered with more simplicity, and less outward glory...
(18) ry God, and very Man, yet one Christ, the only Mediator between God and Man.

III. The Lord Jesus, in his humane nature thus united to the divine, was sanctified and anointed with the holy Spirit, above measure, having in him all the treasures of wisdom and knowledge; in whom, it pleased the Father, that all fulness should dwell; to the end, that being holy, harmless, undefiled, and full of grace and truth, he might be thoroughly furnished to execute the Office of a Mediator, andtythe, Which Office he took not unto himself, but was thereunto called by his Father, who put all power & judgement into his hand, and gave him commandment to execute the same.

IV. This office, the Lord Jesus did most willingly undertake: which that he might discharge, he was made under the Law, and did perfectly fulfill it, enduring most grievous torments immediately in his Soul, and most painful sufferings in his body: was crucified, and died: was buried, and remained under the power of death, yet far from corruption. On the third day he arose from the dead, with the same body in which he suffered, with which also he ascended into Heaven, and there sateth at the right hand of his Father, making intercession, and shall return to judge, men, and Angels, at the end of the world.

V. The Lord Jesus, by his perfect obedience, and sacrifice of himself, which he, through the eternal Spirit, once offered up unto God, hath fully satisfied the justice

(19) of his Father & purchased, not only reconciliation, but an everlasting inheritance in the Kingdom of Heaven, for all tho others whom the Father hath given unto him.

VI. Although the work of Redemption was not actually wrought by Christ till after his Incarnation, yet the vertue, efficacy, and benefit thereof were communicated unto the Elect in all ages successively from the beginning of the world, in, and by those promises, types, and sacrifices, wherein he was revealed, and signified to bee the seed of the Woman which should bruise the serpent's head; and the Lamb slain from the beginning of the world: being yesterday, and to day the same, and for ever.

VII. Christ, in his work of Mediation, according to both Natures, by each Nature doing that which is proper to it itself; yet, by reason of the unity of the Person, that which is proper to one Nature, is sometimes in Scripture attributed to the Person denominated by the other Nature.

VIII. To all those for whom Christ hath purchased Redemption, he doth certainly, and effectually apply, and communicate the same, and making intercession for them, and revealing unto them, in, and by the Word, the mysteries of salvation, effectually persuading them by his Spirit, to believe, and obey, and governing their hearts by his Word and Spirit, overcometh all their enemies by his Almighty Power and Wisdom, in such manner, and ways, as are most consonant to his wonderful and unsearchable dispensation.

Chap. IX.

Of Free-will.

God hath induced the Will of man with that natural liberty, that is neither forced, nor by any absolute necessity of nature determined to do good or evil.

11. Man, in his state of Innocency, had freedom, and power, to will, and to do that which was good, and well pleasing to God; but yet, morally, fothat he might fall from it.

111. Man by his fall into a state of sin, hath wholly lost all ability of Will to any spiritual good accompanying salvation: so as, a natural man, being altogether averse from that good
, and dead in sin, is not able, by his own strength, to convert himself, or to prepare himself thereunto.

IV. When God converts a sinner, and translates him into the state of grace; he freeth him from his natural bondage under sin
; and by his grace alone, enables him freely to will, and to do that which is spiritually good; yet so, as that by reason of his remaining corruption, he doth not perfectly, nor only, will that which is good; but doth also will that which is evil.

V. The will of man is made perfectly, and immutablely free to do good, in the state of Glory only.

Chap. X.

Of Effectual Calling.

All those whom God hath predestinated unto life and glory only, he is pleased in his appointed and accepted time, effectually to call, by his Word and Spirit, out of that state of sin and death, in which they are by nature, to grace and salvation in Jesus Christ, in lightening their minds, spiritually and livelyly to understand the things of God, and taking away their heart of stone, and giving unto them an heart of flesh, to renew their wills, and by his almighty power determining them to that which is good, and effectually drawing them to Jesus Christ; yet so, as they come most freely, being made willing by his grace.

II. This effectual Call is of God's free, and special grace alone; not from any thing at all foreseen in man, who is altogether passive therein, until he be quickened and renewed by the holy Spirit; he, is thereby enabled to answer this Call, and to embrace the grace offered, and conveyed in it.

II. Elect infants, dying in infancy, are regenerated and saved by Christ, through the Spirit, who work-eth when, and where, and how he pleaseth. So also are all other elect persons who are incapable of being outwardly called by the Ministry of the Word.

IV. Others, not elected, although they may be called...
led by the Ministry of the Word, and may have some common operations of the Spirit, yet they never truly come unto Christ, and therefore cannot be saved: much less can men, not professing the Christian Religion, be saved in any other way whatsoever, because they never so diligent to frame their lives according to the light of Nature, and the Law of that Religion they do profess. And, to affect and maintain, that they may, is very pernicious, and to be detected.

CHAP. XI.

Of Justification.

Those whom God effectually calleth, he also freely justifieth: not, by infusing righteousness into them, but by pardoning their sins, and by accounting and accepting their persons as righteous; nor, for anything wrought in them, or done by them, but for Christ's sake alone, nor, by imputing faith it self, the act of believing, or any other evangelical obedience, to them, as their righteousness, but, by imputing the obedience and satisfaction of Christ unto them, they receiving, and resting on him and his righteousness by faith, which faith, they have, not of themselves, it is the gift of God.

I. Faith, thus receiving and resting on Christ and his righteousness, is the alone instrument of justification; yet it is not alone in the person justified, but is ever accompanied with all other saving graces, and is no dead faith, but worked by Love.

II. Christ by his obedience, and death, did fully discharge the debt of all those that are thus justified, and did make a proper, real, and full satisfaction to his Father's Justice in their behalf. Yet, in as much as he was given by the Father, for them, and his obedience and satisfaction accepted in their stead, and both freely, not for anything in them; their justification is only of free grace; that, both the exact justice, and rich grace of God, might be glorified in the justification of sinners.

IV. God did, from all eternity, decree to justify all the elect, and Christ died, in the fulness of time, die for their sins, and rise again for their justification; nevertheless, they are not justified, until the holy Spirit doth in due time, actually apply Christ unto them.

V. God doth continue to forgive the sins of those that are justified; and, although they can never fall from the state of justification, yet they may by their sins, fall under God's fatherly displeasure, and not have the light of his countenance restored unto them, until they humble themselves, confess their sins, beg pardon, and renew their faith and repentance.

VI. The Justification of Believers under the Old Testament, was, in all these respects, one and the same with the justification of Believers under the New Testament.

CHAP. XII.
Of Adoption.

All those that are justified, God vouchsafteth, in and for his only Son Jesus Christ, to make partakers of the grace of Adoption: by which they are taken into the number, and enjoy the liberties and privileges of the Children of God, have his name put upon them, receive the spirit of Adoption, have access to the Throne of Grace with boldness, are enabled to cry, Abba, Father, are pitied, protected, provided for, and chastened, by him, as by a Father; yet never cast off, but sealed to the day of redemption, and inherit the promises, as heirs of everlasting salvation.

CHAP. XIII.
Of Sanctification.

They who are effectually called, and regenerated, having a new heart, and a new spirit created in them; are further sanctified really and personally, through the virtue of Christ's death and resurrection, by his Word, and Spirit dwelling in them: the dominion of the whole body of sin is destroyed, and the several lusts thereof are more and more weakened and mortified: and they, more and more quickened and strengthened in all saving graces, to the practice of true holiness, without which no man shall see the Lord.

II. This Sanification is throughout, in the whole man; yet imperfect in this life, there abideeth still some remnants of corruption in every part: whence ariseth a continuall, and irreconcilable warre, the flesh lusting against the spirit, and the spirit against the flesh.

III. In which warre, although the remaining corruption, for a time, may much prevail; yet through the continual supply of strength from the sanctifying Spirit of Christ, the regenerate part doth overcome, and, the Saints grow in grace, perfecting holiness in the fear of God.

CHAP. XIV.
Of Saving Faith.

The grace of Faith, whereby the elect are enabled to believe to the saving of their souls, is the work of the Spirit of Christ in their hearts: and is ordinarily wrought by the Ministry of the Word; by which also, and by the administration of the Sacraments, and Prayer, it is increased and strengthened.

II. By this Faith, a Christian believeth to be true, whatsoever is revealed in the Word, for the authority of God himself speaking therein; and, seeth differently, that which each particular passage thereof containeth; yielding obedience to the Commands of Christ, trembling at the threatenings, and embracing the promises of God for this life, and that which is to come. But the principal
I. This faith is different in degrees, weak, or strong; may be often and many ways assailed, and weakened, but gets the victory: growing up in many to the attainment of a full assurance through Christ, who is both the Author and Finisher of our faith.

CHAP. XV.

Of Repentance unto life.

Repentance unto life, is an evangelical grace, the Doctrine whereof is to be preached by every minister of the Gospel, as well as that of faith in Christ.

II. By it, a sinner, out of the sight and sense, not only of the danger, but also of the filling and odiousness of his sins, as contrary to the holy nature and righteous Law of God; and, upon the apprehension of his mercy in Christ to such as are penitent, so grieves for, and hates his sins, as to turn from them all unto God, purposing and endeavouring to walk with him in all the ways of his Commandments.

III. Although Repentance be not to be rested in as any satisfaction for sin, or cause of the pardon thereof, which is the act of God's free grace in Christ, yet is it of such necessity to all sinners, that none may expect pardon without it.

IV. As there is no sin so small, but it deserves damnation, so there is no sin so great, that it can bring damnation upon those who truly repent.

V. Men ought not to content themselves with a general repentance, but it is every man's duty to endeavour to repent of his particular sins, particularly.

VI. As every man is bound to make private confession of his sins to God, praying for the pardon thereof, on which, and the forsaking of them, he shall find mercy; so he that scandalizeth his Brother, or the Church of Christ, ought to be willing to declare his repentance to those that are offended, who are thereupon to be reconciled to him, and in love to receive him.

CHAP. XVI.

Of Good works.

Good Works are only such as God hath commanded in his holy Word, and not such as, without the warrant thereof, are devised by men, out of blind zeal, or upon any pretence of good intention.
II. These good works, done in obedience to God's commandments, are the fruits and evidences of a true and lively faith: and, by them, believers manifest their thankfulness, strengthen their assurance, edify their brethren, adorn the profession of the Gospel, stop the mouths of the adversaries, and glorify God, whose workmanship they are, created in Christ Jesus thereunto, that, having their fruit unto holiness, they may have the end, eternal life.

III. Their ability to do good works, is not at all of themselves, but wholly from the Spirit of Christ. And that they may be inable thereunto, besides the graces they have already received, there is required an actual influence of the same Holy Spirit to work in them to will and to do, of his good pleasure: yet, are they not hereupon to grow negligent, as if they were not bound to perform any duty, unless, upon a special motion of the Spirit; but, they ought to be diligent in stirring up the grace of God that is in them.

IV. They, who in their obedience, attain to the greatest height, which is possible in this life, are so farre from being able to supererogate, and to do more than God requires, as that they fall short of much which in duty they are bound to do.

V. We cannot, by our best works, merit pardon of sin, or eternal life at the hand of God, by reason of the great disproportion that is between them and the glory to come; and the infinite distance that is between us and God, whom, by them, we can neither profit, nor satisfy for the debt of our former sins; but when we have done all we can, we have done but our duty, and are unprofitable servants: and, because, as they are good, they proceed from his Spirit; and as they are wrought by us, they are defiled, and mixed with so much weakness and imperfection, that they cannot endure the severity of God's judgement.

VI. Yet notwithstanding, the persons of believers, being accepted through Christ, their good works also are accepted in him; not as though they were in this life wholly unblameable and unreprouvabie in God's sight: but, that, looking upon them in his Son, is pleased to accept, and reward that which is sincere, although accompanied with many weaknesses and imperfections.

VII. Works done by unregenerate men, although, for the matter of them, they may be things which God commands, and of good use, both to themselves and others; yet, because they proceed not from an heart purified by faith; no, nor are done in a right manner, according to the Word, nor, to a right end, the glory of God; they are therefore sinful, and cannot please God, or make a man meet to receive grace from God. Yet, and yet, their neglect of them is more sinful, and displeasing unto God.

CHAP. XVII.

Of the perseverance of the Saints.

H

ey, whom God hath accepted in his Beloved, effectually called, and sanctified by his Spirit, can neither totally, nor finally, fall away from the state of Grace: but shall certainly persevere therein to the end, and be eternally saved.

II. This perseverance of the Saints, depends not upon their own free-will, but upon the immutability of the Decree of Election flowing from the free and unchangeable love of God the Father; upon the efficacy of the merit, and intercession of Jesus Christ; the absence of the Spirit, and of the seed of God within them;

and the nature of the Covenant of Grace: from all which, arise also the certainty, and infallibility thereof.

I. I. Nevertheless, they may, through the temptations of Satan and of the World, the prevalency of corruption remaining in them, and the neglect of the means of their preservation, fall into grievous sins; and, for a time, continue therein: whereby they incur God's displeasure, and grieve his holy Spirit; come to be deprived of some measure of their graces and comforts, have their hearts hardened, and their conscience wounded, hurt, and scandalize others; and,

bring temporal judgments upon themselves.

CHAP. XVIII.

Of the assurance of Grace and Salvation.

lthough hypocrites and other unregenerate men may vainly deceive themselves with false hopes, and small preumptions of being in the favour of God, and state of salvation; which hope of theirs shall perish: yet such as truly believe in the Lord Jesus, and love him in sincerity, endeavouring to walk in all good conscience before him, may, in this life, be certainly assured that they are in the state of grace: and may re-joyce in the hope of the glory of God, which hope shall never make them ashamed.

II. This certainty is not a bare conjectural and probable perfection, grounded upon a fallible hope; but an infallible assurance of faith, founded upon the divine truth of the promises of salvation, the inward evidence of those graces unto which these promises are made, the testimony of the Spirit of Adoption witnessing with our spirits that we are the children of God; which Spirit is the earnest of our inheritance, whereby we are sealed to the day of redemption.

III. This infallible assurance doth not so belong to the essence of faith, but that a true believer may want it, and conflict with many difficulties before he be paticiant in it; yet, being inabled by the Spirit to know the things which are freely given him of God, he may, without extraordinary revelation, in the right use of ordinary means,

means, attain thereunto. And therefore it is the duty of every one to give all diligence to make his calling and election sure: that thereby his heart may be enlarged in peace and joy in the holy Ghost, in love and thankful ness to God, and in strength and cheerfulness in the duties of obedience, the proper fruits of this assurance: so farre is it, from inclining men to loose it.

IV. True believers may have the assurance of their salvation divers ways shaken, diminished, and intermitted, as, by negligence in preserving of it, by falling into some special sin, which woundeth the conscience, and grieveth the s Pompei, by some sudden, or vehement temptation, by Gods withdrawing the light of his countenance, and suffering even such as fear him to walk in darkness and to have no light; yet are they never utterly destitute of that fee of God and life of faith, that love of Christ and the brethren, that sincerity of heart, and conscience of duty, out of which, by the operation of the Spirit, this assurance may, in due time, be revived; and by the which, in the mean time, they are supported from utter despair.

CHAP. XIX.

Of the Law of God.

GOD gave to Adam a Law, as a Covenant of Works, by which he bounded him, and all his posterity to perform all, entire, exact, and perpetual obedience, promised life upon the fulfilling; and threatened death upon the breach of it: and induced him with power and ability to keep it.

II. This Law, after his fall, continued to be a perfect rule of righteousness, and, as such, was delivered by God upon Mount Sinai, in ten Commandments, and written in two Tables: the first Commandment containing our duty towards God; and the other four, our duty to man.

III. Beside this Law, commonly called Moral, God was pleased to give to the people of Israel, as a Church under age, Ceremonial Laws, containing several typical Ordinances, partly of Worship, prefiguring Christ, his graces, actions, sufferings, and benefits: and partly, holding forth divers instructions of moral duties. All which Ceremonial Laws are now abrogated, under the New Testament.

IV. To them also, as a Body Politick, he gave sundry Judicial Laws, which expired together with the State of that people: not obligeing any other now, further than the general equity thereof may require.

V. The Moral Law doth for ever bind all, as well the justified persons as others, to the obedience thereof: and that, not only in regard of the matter contained in it, but also in respect of the authority of God in it: neither doth Christ in the Gospel, any way dissolve, but much strengthen this obligation.

VI. Although true Believers be not under the Law,
CHAP. XX.

Of Christian Liberty, and Liberty of Conscience.

The Liberty which Christ hath purchased for Believers under the Gospel, consists in their freedom from the guilt of sin, the condemning Wrath of God, the curse of the Moral Law a, and in their being delivered from this present evil World, bondage to Satan, and dominion of sin b; from the evil afflictions, the sting of death, the victory of the grave, and everlasting damnation c; as also in their free access to God d, and their yeelding obedience unto him, not of slavish fear, but a child-like love and willing mind e. All which were common alike to Believers under the Law f. But under the New Testament the liberty of Christians is further enlarged in their freedom from the yoke of the Ceremonial Law, to which the Jewish Church was subjected g, and in its greater boldness of access to the throne of Grace h, and in fuller communications of the free Spirit of God, then B-lievers under the Law did ordinarily partake of i.

CHAP.

VII. Neither are the forementioned Uses of the Law contrary to the grace of the Gospel, but do sweetly comply with it w, the Spirit of Christ subduing, and enabling the will of man, to do that, freely and cheerfully, which the will of God, revealed in the Law, requireth to be done x.

as a Covenant of Works, to be thereby justified, or condemned i; yet is it of great use to them, as well as to others; in that, as a Rule of life informing them of the will of God, and their duty, it directs, and bindeth them to walk accordingly m; discovering also the sinful pollutions of their nature, hearts and lives n; so as, examining themselves thereby, they may come to a farther conviction of humiliation for, and hatred against sin o; together with a clearer light of the need they have of Christ, and the perfection of his obedience p. It is likewise of use to the Regenerate, to restrain their corruptions, so that it forbids sin q; and the threatenings of it serve to show, what, even their sins, deserve r; and, what afflictions, in this life, they may expect for them, although freed from the curse thereof threatened in the Law r. The Promises of it, in like manner, shew them Gods approbation of obedience, and all blessings they may expect upon the performance thereof s; although, not as due to them by the Law, as a Covenant of Works t. So as, a man doing good, and refraining from evil, because the Law encourageth to the one, and deterreth from the other, is no evidence of his being under the Law t and, not under grace u.

w Gal. 3:24.
x Heb. 10:33.
III. They, who upon pretence of Christian Liberty, do practise any fin, or cherish any lust, do thereby destroy the end of Christ, and is, that being delivered out of the hands of our Enemies, we might serve the Lord without, in holiness and righteousness before him, all the days of our life.

IV. And because the Power which God hath ordained, and the Liberty which Christ hath purchased, are not intended by God, to destroy, but mutually to uphold and preserve one another: They, who upon Pretence of Christian Liberty, shall oppose any lawful Power, or the lawful exercise of it, whether it be Civil, or Ecclesiastical, restitute the Ordinance of God. And, for their publishing of such Opinions, or maintaining of such Practices, as are contrary to the light of Nature, or to the known Principles of Religion, whether concerning Faith, Worship, or Conversation, or to the Power of Godliness, or such erroneous Opinions or practices, as either in their own nature, or in the manner of publishing or maintaining them, are destructive to the external Peace and Order which Christ hath established in the Church, they may lawfully be called to account, and proceeded against by the Cenfures of the Church, and by the power of the Civil Magistrate.

CHAP. X XI.

The light of Nature sheweth that there is a God, who hath Lordship and Sovereignty over all, and is therefore to be feared, loved, praised, called upon, trusted in, served, with all the heart, and with all the soul, and with all the might. But the acceptable way of worshipping the true God, is instituted by Himself, and founded on his own revealed Will, that he may not be worshipp'd according to the imaginations and devices of men, or the suggestions of Satan, under any visible representations, or any other way not prescribed in the holy Scripture.

II. Religious Worship is to be given to God, the Father, Son, and Holy Ghost; and to him alone; not to Angels, Saints, or any other creature: and since the Fall, not without a Mediator; nor in the mediation of any other, but of Christ alone.

I. Prayer, with Thanksgiving, being one especial part of Religious Worship, is by God required of all men, and that it may be accepted, it is to be made in the Name of the Son, by the help of his Spirit, according to his Will, with understanding, reverence, humility, fervency, faith, love, and perseverance, and if vocal, in a known tongue.

IV. Prayer is to be made for things lawful, n and...
V. The reading of the Scriptures with godly fear, the found Preaching, and confession of hearing of the word, in obedience unto God, with understanding, faith, and reverence; singing of Psalms with grace in the heart as also, the due administration, and worship receiving of the Sacraments instituted by Christ; are all, parts of the ordinary Religious worship of God: Besides Religious Oaths, Vows, solemn Fastings, and thanksgivings upon several occasions, which are, in their several times and seasons, to be used, in an holy and religious manner.

VI. Neither Prayer, nor any other part of Religious Worship, is now under the Gospel, either tried unto, or made more acceptable by any place in which it is performed, or towards which it is directed; but God is to be worshipped everywhere, in Spirit and Truth: as in private Families, daily, and in secret, each one by himself; so more solemnly, in the publick Assemblies, which are not careless, or wilfully to be neglected, or forsaken; when, God, by his Word or Providence, calleth thereunto.

VII. As it is of the Law of Nature, that in general, a due proportion of time be spent upon, for the Worship of God; so, in his Word, by a positive, moral, and perpetual Commandement, binding all men, in all places, for, and unto a day, in which we are here especially desirous, and call up our minds to consider, as a Day of Holy, SABBATHS, to be kept holy unto the Lord, as the day of rest, solemnly, and devoutly, in the time, and manner, as it is set forth in the Scripture, in the beginning of the world; to the resurrection of Christ, was the last day of the week; and, from the resurrection of Christ, was changed into the First day of the week, which, in Scripture, is called The Lord’s Day, and is to be continued to the end of the world, as the Christian Sabbath.

VIII. This Sabbath is then kept holy unto the Lord, when men, after a due preparing of their hearts, and ordering of their common affairs beforehand, do not only observe an holy rest, all the Day, from their own works, words, and thoughts about their worldly employments, and recreations, but also are taken up the whole time in the publick and private Exercises of his Worship, and in the Duties of necessity, and thereby.

CHAP. XXII.

Of Lawful Oaths and Vows.

A Lawful Oath is a part of Religious Worship, a due Oath, wherein, upon just occasion, the person swearing solemnly calleth upon God to witness what he affirmit, or promiseth; and to judge him according to the truth or falsehood of what he sweareth.

II. The Name of God only, is that by which men ought to swear; and, therein it is to be used with all holy fear and reverence. Therefore, to swear vainly, or rashly, by that glorious and dreadful Name; or, to swear at all, by any other thing, is sinful, and to be abhorred. Yet, as in matters of weight and moment, an
VII. No man may vow, to do any thing forbidden in the Word of God, or what would hinder any duty therein commanded; or which is not in his own power, and for the performance whereof, he hath no promise of ability from God. In which respect, Pulpit Monastical Vows, of perpetual single life, professed Poverty, and regular Obedience; are so far from being degrees of higher perfection, that they are superstitious and intituled snare, in which, no Christian may intangle himself.

CHAR. XXIII.

Of the Civil Magistrate.

GOD the supreme Lord and King of all the world, hath ordained Civil Magistrates to be under him, over the people, for his own Glory, and the public good; and to this end hath armed them with the Power of the Sword, for the defence and encouragement of them that are good, and for the punishment of evil doers.

II. It is lawful for Christians, so to accept and execute the Office of a Magistrate when called thereunto, as in the managing whereof, as they ought especially to maintain Piety, Justice, and Peace, according to the wholesome Laws of each Common-wealth: so, for that end, they may lawfully use the New Testament, wage War, upon just and necessary occasion.
III. The Civil Magistrate may not assume to himself the Administration of the Word and Sacraments, or the power of the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven: yet he hath Authority, and it is his duty to take order, that Unity and Peace be preserved in the Church, that the Truth of God be kept pure and entire, that all Blasphemies and Heresies be suppressed, all corruptions and abuses in Worship and Discipline prevented or reformed: and all the Ordinances of God duly setted, administered and observed. For the better effecting whereof he hath power to call Synods, to be present at them, and to provide that whatsoever be transacted in them be according to the mine of God.

IV. It is the duty of People to pray for Magistrates, to honour their persons, to pay them tribute and other dues, to obey their lawful Commands, and to be subject to their Authority for conscience sake. Infidelity or difference in Religion doth not make void the Magistrates just and legal Authority, nor free the People from their due obedience to him: from which Ecclesiastical persons are not exempted; much less hath the Pope any power or jurisdiction over them, in their Dominions, or over any of their people; and least of all to deprive them of their Dominions, or lives, if he shall judge them to be Hereticks, or upon any other pretence whatsoever.

CHAP.

Marriage is to be between one Man and one Woman: neither is it lawful for any man to have more than one Wife, nor for any Woman to have more than one Husband at the same time.

II. Marriage was ordained for the mutual help of Husband and Wife, for the increase of Mankinde, with a legitimate issue, and of the Church with an holy seed, and for preventing of uncleanness.

III. It is lawful for all sorts of people to marry who are able with judgement to give their consent.

Yet is it the duty of Christians to marry only in the Lord: And therefore such as profess the true reformed Religion should not marry with Infidels, Pagans, or other Idolaters: Neither should such as are godly be unequally yoked, by marrying with such as are notoriously wicked in their life, or maintain damnable Heresies.

IV. Marriage ought not to be within the degrees of Conffanguinity or Affinity forbidden in the Word. Nor can such incestuous Marriages ever be made lawful by any Law of man, or consent of parties, so as those persons may live together as Man and Wife. The Man may not marry any of his Wives kindred nearer in blood than he may of his own; nor the Woman of her Husband’s kindred, nearer to a Letter 20, 19, blood than of her own.

F 2 V. Adul...
V. Adultery or Fornication committed after a Contract, being detected before Marriage, giveth just occasion to the innocent party to disolve that Contract. In the case of Adultery after Marriage, it is lawful for the innocent party to conclude a Divorce: and after the Divorce to marry another, as if the offending party were dead.

V I. Although the corruption of man be such as is apt to study arguments unduly to put asunder those whom God hath joined together in marriage, yet nothing but Adultery, or such wilful desertion as can no way be remedied by the Church, or Civil Magistrate, is sufficient of dissolving the bond of Marriage: Wherein a publick and orderly course of proceeding is to be observed; and the persons concerned in it not to leave to their own wills and discretion in their own case.

CHAP. XXV.
Of the Church.

The Catholick or Universal Church which is invincible, consists of the whole number of the Elect, that have been, are, or shall be gathered into one, under Christ the Head thereof; and is the Spouse, the Body, the fulness of him that filleth all in all.

II. The visible Church, which is also Catholick or Universal under the Gospel (not confined to one Nation, as before under the Law) consists of all those, throughout the World, that profess the true Religion, and of their Children; and is the Kingdom of the Lord Jesus Christ, the House and Family of God, out of which, there is no ordinary possibility of Salvation.

III. Unto this Catholick Visible Church, Christ hath given the Ministry, Oracles, and Ordinances of God, for the gathering, and perfecting of the Saints, in this life, to the end of the World: and doth by his own presence and Spirit, according to his promise, make them effectual thereunto.

IV. This Catholick Church hath been sometimes more, sometimes less, visible. And particular Churches, which are Members thereof, are more or less pure, according as the Doctrine of the Gospel is taught and imbraced, Ordinances administered, and Publick Worship performed more or less purely in them.

V. The Purest Churches under Heaven are subject both to mixture, and error: and some have been degenerated, as to become no Churches of Christ, but Synagogues of Satan. Nevertheless, there shall be always a Church on Earth, to worship God according to his will.

VI. There is no other Head of the Church, but the Lord Jesus Christ: Nor can the Pope of Rome, in any sense be head thereof; but is, that Antichrist, that Man of Sin, and Son of Perdition.
that exalteth himself in the Church against Christ, and all that is called God.

CHAP. XXVI.

Of the Communion of Saints.

All Saints, that are united to Jesus Christ their Head, by his Spirit, and by Faith, have fellowship with him in his graces, sufferings, death, resurrection, and glory: And being united to one another in love, they have communion in each others gifts and graces, and are obliged to the performance of such duties, publick and private, as do conduce to their mutual good, both in the inward and outward man.

II. Saints by profession are bound to maintain an holy fellowship and communion in the worship of God, and in performing such other spiritual services as tend to their mutual edification: as also in relieving each other in outward things, according to their several abilities and necessities. Which communion, as God offereth opportunity, is to be extended unto all those, who, in every place call upon the Name of the Lord Jesus.

III. This Communion which the Saints have with Christ, doth not make them, in any wise, partakers of the substance of his Godhead, or to be equal with Christ in any respect: either of which to affirm, is impious and blasphemous. Nor doth their Communion one with another, as Saints, take away, or infringe the title or propriety which each hath in his goods and possessions.

CHAP. XXVII.

Of the Sacraments.

Sacraments are holy Signs and Seals of the Covenant of Grace, immediately instituted by God, to represent Christ and his benefits, and to confirm our interest in him: as also to put a visible difference between those that belong unto the Church, and the rest of the World: and solemnly to engage them to the service of God in Christ according to his Word.

I. There is in every Sacrament a spiritual relation, or Sacramental union between the Sign and the Thing signified: whence it comes to passe, that the names and the effects of the one are attributed to the other.

III. The grace which is exhibited in, or by the Sacraments rightly used, is not conferred by any power in them: neither doth the efficacy of a Sacrament depend upon the piety or intention of him that doth administer it: but upon the work of the Spirit and the word of Institution, which contains, together with a Precept authorizing the use thereof, a promiss of Benefit to worthy Receivers.

IV. There be only two Sacraments ordained by Christ our Lord in the Gospel: that is to say, Baptism and the Supper of the Lord: neither of which may may be dispensed by any, but by a Minister of the Word lawfully ordained.

V. The Sacraments of the Old Testament, in regard of the spiritual things thereby signified and exhibited, were, for substance, the same with those of the New Testament.

CHAP. XXVIII.

Of Baptism.

Baptism is a Sacrament of the New Testament, ordained by Jesus Christ, not only for the solemn Admission of the party baptized into the visible Church: but also to be unto him a sign and seal of the Covenant of Grace, of his ingrafting into Christ, of regeneration, of Remission of sins, and of his giving up unto God through Jesus Christ, to walk in newness of life. Which Sacrament is by Christ's own appointment to be continued in his Church until the end of the World.

II. The outward Element to be used in this Sacrament is Water, whereunto the Party is to be Baptized, in the Name of the Father, and of the Son, and of the Holy Ghost, by a Minister of the Gospel lawfully called thereunto.

III. Dipping of the person into the Water is not necessary: but Baptism is rightly administered by pouring or sprinkling Water upon the person.

IV. Not only those that do actually profess faith, and obedience unto Christ, but also the infants of one or both believing Parents, are to be baptized

V. Although it be a great sin, to continue or neglect this Ordinance, yet Grace and Salvation are not to be indispensably annexed unto it, as that no person can be regenerate or saved, without it: or, that all that are Baptized, are undoubtedly regenerated.

VI. The efficacy of Baptism is not tied to that moment of time, wherein it is administered: yet, notwithstanding, by the right use of this Ordinance, the grace promised, is not only offered, but really exhibited and conferred, by the Holy Ghost, to such (whether of age, or infants) as that Grace belongeth unto, according to the Counsel of God's own Will, in his appointed time.

VII. The Sacrament of Baptism is but once to be administered unto any person.

CHAP. XXIX.

Of the LORDS Supper.

Our Lord Jesus, in the night wherein he was betrayed, Instituted the Sacrament of his Body and Blood, called the Lords Supper, to be observed in his Church, unto the end of the World, for the perpetual Remembrance of the Sacrifice of Himself.
in his Death, the sealing all benefit thereof unto true Beleevers, their Spiritual nourishment and growth in him, their further ingagement in, and to all duties which they owe unto him; and, to be a bond, and pledge of their Communion with him, and with each other, as members of his mystical Body.

II. In this Sacrament Christ is not offered up to his Fathers; nor, any real Sacrifice made at all, for remission of sin of the quick or dead, but only a Commemoration of that one offering up of Himself, by Himself, upon the Cross, once for all; and a spiritual obligation of all possible praise unto God, for the same: So that, the Popish Sacrifice of the Masse (as they call it) is most abominably injurious to Christ's one, only Sacrifice, the alone propitiation for all the sins of the Elect.

III. The Lord Jesus hath, in this Ordinance, appointed his Ministers to declare his word of Institution to the People; to pray, and bless the Elements of Bread and Wine, and thereby to set them apart from a Common to an Holy Use; and to Take, and Break the Bread, to take the Cup, and (they communicating also themselves) to give both to the Communicants; but, to none who are not then present in the Congregation.

IV. Private Masses, or receiving this Sacrament by a priest or any other, alone, as likewise, the denial of the Cup to the people, worshipping the Elements, the lifting them up, or carrying them about for adoration, and the refusing them for any pretended religious use, are all contrary to the nature of this Sacrament: and to the Institution of Christ.

V. The outward Elements in this Sacrament, duly set apart, to the uses ordained by Christ, have such relation to him crucified, as that truly, yet sacramentally only, they are sometimes called by the name of the things they represent, to wit, the Body and Blood of Christ; albeit in substance and nature, they still remain, truly, and only Bread and Wine.

VI. That Doctrine which maintains a change of the substance of Bread and Wine, into the substance of Christ's Body and Blood (commonly called Transubstantiation) by consecration of a Priest, or by any other way, is repugnant to Scripture alone, but even to common Sense and Reason; overthroweth the nature of the Sacrament, and hath been, and is the cause of manifold Superstitions; yea of gross idolatries.

VII. Worthy Receivers outwardly partaking of the visible Elements in this Sacrament, doe then also inwardly by faith, really and indeed, not carnally and corporally, but Spiritually, receive, and feed upon Christ crucified, and all benefits of his death: The Body and Blood of Christ being then, not corporally or carnally, in, with, or under the Bread and Wine; Yet as really, but Spiritually, present to the Faith of Believers in that Ordinance, as Elements themselves are to their outward senses.
VIII. Although ignorant, and wicked men receive the outward Elements, in this Sacrament; yet they receive not the Thing signified thereby; but by their unworthy coming thereunto, are guilty of the Body and Blood of the Lord to their own damnation. Wherefore, all ignorant, and ungodly persons, as they are unfit to enjoy communion with him, so are they unworthy of the Lords Table; and cannot without great sin against Christ, while they remain such, partake of those Holy Mysteries p, or be admitted therunto q.

THE LORD JESUS, as King and Head of his Church, hath therein appointed a Government, in the hand of Church Officers, distinct from the Civil Magistrate s.

II. To these Officers, the Keys of the Kingdom of Heaven are committed: by virtue whereof they have power, respectively, to retain, and remit sins; to shut that Kingdom against the impenitent, both by the Word, and Ceremonies t, and to open it unto penitent sinners, by the Ministry of the Gospel, and by Absolution from Ceremonies, as occasion shall require b.

III. Church Ceremonies are necessary, for the reclaiming & gaining of offending Brethren, for deterring of others from like offences, for purging out of that leaven which might infect the whole Lump, for vindicating the honour of Christ, and the holy profession of the Gospel, and for preventing the wrath of God, which may justly fall upon the Church, if they should suffer his Covenant and the Seals thereof to be profaned by notorious and obstinate offenders c.

IV. For the better attaining of these ends, the Officers of the Church are to proceed by Admonition, Suspension from the Sacrament of the Lords Supper d, for a season: and by Excommunication from the Church, according to the nature of the crime and demerit of the person e.

CHAP. XXXI.
Of Synods and Councils.

For the better Government, and further edification of the Church; there ought to be such Assemblies as are commonly called Synods or Councils a.

II. As Magistrates may lawfully call a Synod of Ministers, and other fit persons to consult and advise with, about matters of Religion b: So, if Magistrates be open Enemies to the Church, the Ministers of Christ, of themselves, by virtue of their Office c, or they with other fit persons, upon delegation from their Church, may meet together in such Assemblies e.

II. It belongeth to Synods and Councils ministerially to determine Controversies of Faith, and Cases of Conscience, to set down Rules and Directions for the the better ordering of the publick Worship of God, and Government of his Church, to receive Complaints in cases of male administration, and authoritatively to determine the same: which Decrees and Determinations, if consonant to the Word of God, are to be received with reverence and submission, not only for their agreement with the Word, but also for the Power whereby they are made, as being an Ordinance of God appointed thereunto in his Word.

IV. All Synods or Councils since the Apostles' times, whether general or particular, may err, and many have erred. Therefore they are not to be made the rule of Faith or practice, but to be used as an help in both.

V. Synods and Councils are to handle or conclude nothing but that which is Ecclesiastical: and are not to intermeddle with Civil Affairs which concern the Common-wealth, unless by way of humble Petition in cases extraordinary; or by way of Advice, for satisfaction of Conscience, if they be thereunto required by the Civil Magistrate.

CHAP. XXXII.
Of the state of men after death, and of the Resurrection of the dead.

The Bodies of men after death return to dust, and see corruption: but their Souls (which neither die nor sleep) having an immortal subsistence, immediately return to God who gave them: the Souls of the Righteous, being then made perfect in holiness, are received into the highest heavens, where they behold the face of God in light and glory, waiting for the full redemption of their Bodies. And the Souls of the wicked are cast into Hell, where they remain in torments and utter darkness, referred to the Judgement of the great Day. Beside these two places for Souls separated from their Bodies, the Scripture acknowledgeth none.

II. At the last Day such as are found alive shall not die, but be changed, and all the dead shall be raised up, with the same bodies, and none other, although with different qualities, which shall be united again to their Souls for ever.

III. The Bodies of the unjust shall by the power of Christ, be raised to dishonour: the Bodies of the Just by his Spirit unto honour, and be made conformable to his own glorious Body.

CHAP. XXXIII.
Of the last Judgement.

GOD hath appointed a Day wherein he will judge the World in righteousness by Jesus Christ, to whom all power and judgment is given of the Father. In which Day not only the apostate Angels shall be judged, but likewise all persons that have lived upon Earth shall appear before the Tribunal of Christ, to give an account of their Thoughts, Words, and Deeds; and to receive according to what they have done in the Body, whether good or evil.
II. The End of God's appointing this Day is for the manifestation of the glory of his Mercy, in the eternal salvation of the Elect; and of his Justice, in the damnation of the Reprobate, who are wicked and disobedient. For then shall the Righteous go into everlasting Life, and receive that fulness of Joy and Refreshing which shall come from the presence of the Lord: but the Wicked, who know not God, and obey not the Gospel of Jesus Christ, shall be cast into eternal torments, and be punished with everlasting destruction from the presence of the Lord, and from the glory of his Power.

III. As Christ would have us to be certainly persuaded that there shall be a Day of Judgement, both to deter all men from sin, and for the greater consolation of the godly in their adversity: so will he have that Day unknown to men, that they may shake off all carnal security, and be always watchful, because they know not at what hour the Lord will come; and may be ever prepared to say, Come Lord Jesus, come quickly. Amen.
